Willunga Directories...

The Willunga Calendar/Directory seems to have filled a real need ... if we are to judge by the amount of positive comment we are receiving.

We are now in the process of contacting the remaining businesses and organisations we were unable to call prior to the calendar going to print.

Basic level... if you are a business, club or organisation, your basic cost to be listed in the 2009 Willunga Directories is $55pa.

This covers the following entries...

- 2009 Willunga Calendar/Directory (all residents & businesses have been sent one)
- 2009 Willunga Businesses Directory (should be available to businesses in March)
- www.WillungaFestivals.com (if you are tourist orientated)
- www.WillungaSA.com (Willunga business, organisation & club directory)

Other Levels... You can also choose from a number of levels according to the amount of advertising you want in the InaNutShell-and save heaps! Call Rilda for more information...

If you have a website, please notify us so we can place a link to it from the Willunga websites. We would also ask that you do a simple link on your site to ours.

Your own webpage... If you are not able to afford your own website, your business, club or organisation can have a large webpage with its own domain name on www.WillungaSA.com. Call Andrew or Rilda to find out the details and advantages...

Please check the websites and Calendar Directory...

- In case we have missed your business, club or organisation,
- In case we have made any mistakes to your entry so it can be corrected immediately on the websites.

News & Reports

Impro Inspiration...

Finally there is something to really get you going in the morning that doesn't involve leotards. Thursday mornings at 9.30am at the Blue Doors in Willunga, shake out the cobwebs, fire up the grey matter and get the day off to a great start with Impro Inspiration classes. Based on TheatreSportsT, the comedy improvisation format behind "Thank God You're Here!" and "Whose Line Is It Anyway?"

"Impro Inspiration" classes challenge, entertain and get you to giggle. Following the novelty rules of TheatreSportsT games, you'll stretch your mind and stimulate your creativity as you improvise hilarious group sketches. For some this releases stress, for others it boosts confidence, develops communication skills and increases spontaneity, but for all it's the joy of working with rather than against others and sharing a great belly laugh.

There are no prerequisites and you don't need to be a stand up comedian, in fact, it's the ideal way to revitalize your sense of humour. We start very gradually, breaking down inhibitions with laughter, building trust with support activities, and playing games to develop group story telling skills. Although rarely used, there is always the option to pass.

The classes are run by nationally certified local TheatreSportsT coach Jeff Simmons who has trained in Canada with Keith Johnstone (the creator of TheatreSportsT), in Sydney with Lynne Piere (author of TheatreSports Down Under) and taught since 2002. Improvisation is a great personal development experience, but for many, it also becomes the inspiration to perform on stage. There are always plenty of opportunities for this with Jeff and wife Anne's theatre company Impro NOW! They hold the International TheatreSports License for South Australia and put on a show locally each term. They conduct shows and workshops for schools, corporate and private functions and host "TheatreSports Clash of the Theatre Titans" in the Fringe Festival. Sold out every year since 2004, "The Clash" sees the best Fringe improvisers from throughout the known universe competing in the red raw, full contact smack-down that is TheatreSportsT. In this high energy fusion of theatre and stand up comedy, teams sing, dance mime or do whatever it takes to earn audience scores and avoid the hanging judge's elimination horn. The winners get to perform their own Fringe show in a minute.

Whether you want to strut your stuff on stage, harness the power of laughter, or just have some fun with friends and you are turning 11 or older in 2009, there is a class for you. Try the first session and if you don't wish to continue it's free.

Juniors 11 & 12: Wednesdays 4-5.30pm. Youth 13 and over: Mondays 4-5.30pm. Adults: Mondays 7.30-9pm or Thursdays 9.30-11pm. Performance Troupe: Tuesdays 7.30-9pm. Classes begin the week commencing February 2 and can be joined at any time.

Pancake Day...

This year Pancake Day is on Tuesday, February 24th. Willunga Uniting Church will again host an evening of yummy pancakes for all to share amongst the setting of the Bell Paddock. This open space park is on the corner of St Andrew's Terrace and St. Judes Street, Willunga.

The gathering will commence at 7pm onwards. With drinks and a variety of homemade pancakes on offer. This is a tradition that in times past was used to use up all ingredients in the home before the time of Lent. Willunga Uniting Church is also open for quiet reflection and time out each weekday from 6pm to 7pm. Enquiries welcome. Jenny 08 8556 2758.

Debt Relief Info Night...

Are You Struggling to Pay the Bills? - You're not alone.

Come along to Debt Relief Information Forum on Wednesday 18 February at Noarlunga. The free Forum will commence from 6:00pm at the Don Hopgood Theatre Foyer, Ramsay Place, Noarlunga Centre.

The global financial crisis is placing increased pressure on local family budgets already stretched by the cost of living. "As a result of the global financial crisis, many Southern Adelaide residents who are unsure where to turn have contacted my office seeking affordable financial guidance to help balance their budgets," said Amanda Rishworth.

"This session is designed to provide information and advice from a range of people to point local residents in the right direction." Panellists include representatives from the Financial Ombudsman, Uniting Care SA, Centrelink, Legal Aid and St Vincent de Paul. Each panel expert will be available to personally consult with residents after the formal introduction of each organisation. "The free information session will help advise people in our community who are having difficulty paying their bills or managing their household budget," Ms Rishworth said.

Mr Owen Covick, Associate Professor in Economics at Flinders University will chair the Forum. Mr Covick is co-author of the best-selling State of Play series of books on Australian economic policy. Ms Rishworth is pleased that Mr Covick offered to facilitate this important information forum.

"Associate Professor Covick will be able to provide a valuable insight into the current economic climate and how we can plan for it," Ms Rishworth said. There will be information stalls hosted by all panellists and other community organisations including Hackham West Community Centre and Anglicare SA. The Forum has received a great response from local organisations and the wider community.

"I urge residents in our community to come along and gain valuable advice on how they can better manage their cost of living pressures."

A light supper will be provided.
